Pride and Prejudice II May 01 2021 One of a family of generations (ancestors and descendants) of authors, Victoria Park became interested in fiction after a lifetime of technical writings of electronics and psychology. Pride and Prejudice II was born in the south of France while the author was writing technical works, which had to be shelved because the novel intruded on the authors consciousness demanding to be written. The author lives in North Wales with two Old English sheepdogs and a ginger cat. Wales, being a small principality attached to the western side of England and with its ancient castles, even more ancient mountains, convivial peoples, and breathtaking scenery, provides the inspiration for writing.

What Einstein Told His Cook 2: The Sequel: Further Adventures in Kitchen Science Apr 19 2020 The scientist in the kitchen tells us more about what makes our foods tick. This sequel to the best-selling What Einstein Told His Cook continues Bob Wolke's investigations into the science behind our foods—from the farm or factory to the market, and through the kitchen to the table. In response to ongoing questions from the readers of his nationally syndicated Washington Post column, "Food 101," Wolke continues to debunk misconceptions with reliable, commonsense answers. He has also added a new feature for curious cooks and budding scientists, "Sidebar Science," which details the chemical processes that underlie food and cooking. In the same plain language that made the first book a hit with both techies and foodies, Wolke combines the authority, clarity, and wit of a renowned research scientist, writer, and teacher. All those who cook, or for that matter go to the market and eat, will become wiser consumers, better cooks, and happier gastronomes for understanding their food.

Alice Paulet, Vol. 2 of 2 Oct 14 2019 Excerpt from Alice Paulet, Vol. 2 of 2: A Sequel to Sydenham, Or, Memoirs of a Man of the World The society of the fox-hunters, whom I found to be, for the most part, country gentlemen, the principal business of whose lives was field sports, would have offered me few attractions, even had I no other resource; and that of the Priory would have been delightful to me, even had I not been drawn thither by the one all-powerful allurements which it presented. My red coat, therefore, was but rarely assumed, and when I did appear in the field, I was urged thither more by a consciousness, that it was necessary to keep up the pretext, under which I had taken up my abode in the neighbourhood, than by a love of the noble exercise. In fact, scarcely a day elapsed that I did not see some of the party, and two or three evenings in every week were passed at the Priory. At many of these domestic soirees, certainly, I met Captain Axford, but my hostility toward that personage gradually diminished, as my persuasion grew more certain, that he was not preferred to myself in Miss Paulet's regards. Jaws 2: The Making of the Hollywood Sequel Oct 06 2021 Just when filmmakers thought it was safe to make a sequel, director John D. Hancock ran into huge difficulties making Jaws 2 (1978), a thriller film and the first sequel to Steven Spielberg's Jaws (1975). Until now, the full story of the sea of troubles during the making of the film has never been told. Authors Louis R. Pisano and Michael A. Smith fished from the original cast and crew the full no-holds-barred story from their behind the scenes experiences, a tale as action packed and occasionally as bloody as the film. Based on Peter Benchley's original Jaws novel, Jaws 2 starred Roy Scheider as a police chief dealing with another great white shark terrorizing the waters of a resort. The original director, John D. Hancock, proved unable to handle the action film and was replaced by Jeannot Szwarc. Actor Roy Scheider, who only made the film to end a contractual issue with Universal, was also unhappy during production and had several heated exchanges with Szwarc. Follow the entire fascinating production of the unforgettable film from concept to the impact the film made on Hollywood after Jaws 2 achieved a spot on Variety's list of Top 10 box office hits. About the authors: Louis R. Pisano is the director of the very popular series of "JawsFEST" fan DVDs. Michael A. Smith is the co-founder of MediaMikes.com and is a long-serving officer of the Kansas City Film Critics Circle. Jaws 2 The Making of the Hollywood Sequel is their first book. Includes Footnotes and illustrated with more than 200 rare behind-the-scenes photos taken by the cast and crew.

The Idler in France, Vol. 1 of 2 Sep 24 2020 Excerpt from The Idler in France, Vol. 1 of 2: A Sequel to the Idler in Italy I have omitted to notice the route to this place, having formerly described the greater portion of it. I remarked a considerable improvement in the different towns

we passed through: the people look cleaner, and an air of business has replaced the stagnation that used to prevail, except in Marseilles and Toulon, which were always busy cities. Nîmes surpasses my expectations, although they had been greatly excited, and amply repays the long detour we have made to visit it. When I first started high school, I did not know how to deal with it. The first class I went to was your class, my F.A.S. class. I did not know what to expect, but you were a nice teacher with a lot of spirit. I wondered if all teachers were just like you, so I became confident and took in all the new experiences in high school with no fear. I liked how you would read us some of your poems because they were really inspirational.

Dennys Ramirez: Class of 2013 – The Prominent Class
Other reasons why I appreciate you is how you give the best advice. With the book you wrote you were able to send messages with each poem. It was helpful and inspiring being able to listen to a new poem every day. Thank you for all the assistance in high school with your help I feel prepared to experience college.

Riding High (73)
Message: “Riding High”, I believe, is one of the epic poems of Riding The Bus 2 – The Sequel. A young man who was sitting in the back seat blowing carbon dioxide and marijuana fumes into the air conditioner inspired me to write this poem. I was sitting towards the back observing my next poem.

Riding High (73)
No, it's not what you are thinking, Though that probably happens too, I am talking about those new Foothill busses, That have two steps and one more step, To the third tier at the back of the bus. Riding high, looking down at everyone, Seeing eye to eye at big rig drivers, A good comfortable feeling, Of peace and tranquility, My son thought it was cool. Riding high at the back of the bus, All for 2 dollars and 45 cents, Not a worry in my mind, I know I am saving money, I am paying off all my debt. Riding high, higher than limos, Higher than Jaguars, Lamborghinis, Mercedes, BMW's, limited editions, I want to ride high through life, Owing nothing to no one. Alice Paulet, Vol. 1 of 2 Nov 14 2019 Excerpt from Alice Paulet, Vol. 1 of 2: A Sequel to Sydenham, or Memoirs of a Man of the World Gentlemen, I trust you will pardon me, if the fatigue of my journey, and the unexpected honour which you have conferred upon me, at first so overpowered my faculties, that I was unable to express the gratitude and delight which I experienced 'at these most ?attering testimonies of your confidence and esteem. I should be unworthy the name of Englishman, did I not consider these demonstrations as the most acceptable reward which a member of parliament can receive for his services, and an ample compensation for what ever difficulties and vexations he may have had to encounter in the honest and faithful discharge of his duty. The Idler in France, Vol. 2 of 2 Jan 29 2021 Excerpt from The Idler in France, Vol. 2 of 2: A Sequel to the Idler in Italy I know few things more agreeable than to hear him and his cousin open the armoury of their wit, which, like summer lightning, ?ushes rapidly and brightly, but never wounds. In England, we are apt to consider wit and satire as nearly synonymous; for we hear of the clever sayings of our reputed wits, in nine cases out Of ten, allied to some ill-natured bon mot, or point ed epigram. In France this is not the case, for some of the most witty men, and women too, whom I ever knew, are as remarkable for their good nature as for their cleverness. That wit which needs not the spur of malice is certainly the best, and is most frequently met with at Paris. Wolke combines the authority, clarity, and wit of a renowned research scientist, writer, and teacher. All those who cook, or for that matter go to the market and eat, will become wiser consumers, better cooks, and happier gastronomes for understanding their food.
